Ex-congressman George W. Curry, of New Mexico, sounded a warning note to Mexico when he addressed more than 200 army officers and civilians at the chamber of commerce banquet Tuesday night—given in honor of the newly arrived 15th cavalry and the soon to-depart Butte project. And I want to ask for the continued cooperation of the public spirited men in this section to operate the Elephant Butte project. (Appart Second regiment of cavalry.

"President Wilson has been misinformed on conditions in Mexico and secretary Bryan has failed to beed many appeals for help made by Americans left without funds or protection in that country. Wilson wants to do right and he has been doing as his conscience told him was the right thing. But, although his policy at times has seemed weak and vacillating, don't get the idea that he is not a man of action. When the time for that comes, if it ever does, you will see that he can act as firmly and as quickly as any man who has ever sat in the president's chair."

Applanse followed this portion of Curry's remarks.

Neill Greets and Speeds the Guests. Robert T. Neill, U. S. district aftorney, voiced the sentiments of El Pasoans when, at the conclusion of his speech, he turned to the center of the big banquet foom at the flotel Paso del Norte and, addressing a round table at which were scated 21 officers, said: "And so we say god-speed and an revoir to the departing Second, and welcome; three welcome to the 15th."

"Mr. Curry is not only an exconcressman, but he is an exsheriff of Lincoln county. New Mexico, which is some job. He went to the Philippines with Roosevelt and was made governor of an island over there after the war."

Curry Peels Embarrassed.

"I feel embarrassed by being called on to speak here tonight." said Curry.

subject, but I am going to take a try at saying a few words on it. When I was in Washington last I saw president Wilson and his cabinet about conditions in Mexico. The president has been misinformed about conditions. I believe, and his secretary of state has falled to heed many appeals for help made by destinate. elp made by destitute Americans in

The only question how is the raising of the embargo on arms. I advised Wilson and Bryan not to give arms and ammunition to Mexico, because the time is soon coming when the United States may need all of this material it can get. I believe that, in the beginning, the president should have told american citizens to stay the beginning, the president should have told American citizens to stay in Mexico. Then he should have demanded that the Mexican government protect them and, if this was not done, he should have sent the American army in to do it." (Applause).

"Congress is standing behind the president, who is doing all in his power to prevent armed intervention. But I want to go on record as saying that the time is coming when Maria the time is coming when Mexico and Mexicans must respect American lives and property more or we will call them to a sudden and perhaps bloody account. The president's pattence is about exhausted, and we as Americans must assert ourselves." (More applause).

Robert T. Nelli was then infroduced and made a brief speech of welcome and goodbye to the army officers present. "The prmy has been with us," he said, "since the earliest days. Even before the town of Franklin was started, it was here. The immortal Donovan blazed the way. Joseph E. Johnson followed him. A post was built here and we have had the army ever since. "Three years that have gone by have afforded us many epportunities to say goodbye to depirting regiments and to welcome new ones. For the last three years, the hands of the army have been tied and so I feel safe in welcoming you—our neighbors also feel safe, I suppose, since your hands are tied."

Note—All market news on this page reflects closing sale prices (unless buy or bid be specified) Wednesday, Nov. 19, 1913. ***

New York, Nov. 19.—Speculators were perplexed at the sudden outhurst of selling which depressed stocks today, coming in the midst of a morning session which was proceeding in the same dull, colorless way as on the two precding days.

Lack of definite information concerning Mexican affairs and reiteration of unfavorable trade news depressed sentiment and made the market susceptible to bear raids. The list was not long under pressure, however, and before noon part of the losses had been recovered.

Bonds were steady.

Recovery from the early low prices

Bonds were steady.

Recovery from the early low prices facilitated distribution again. This was most evident in Reading and Union Pacific, which returned to their early levels.

The market closed heavy. Torpid speculation prevailed until the end.
Dismal reports from the sterl trade and the official announcement of an abrupt decline in copper prices did not increase the selling pressure on either of the stocks affected.

GOES TO COURT TO RECOVER HIS CHILD

To determine whether or not a father shall have the enstody of his child, a writ of habens agrpus was issued Wednesday by judge Dan M. Jackson, of the 34th district court, requiring that the child, Viviana Vasquez, aged 7, and her present guardian, Mannel Huertus, be brought into court for a hearing. November 20, at 8:30 oclock.

The issuance of the habeas corpus followed the filing of a petition in the district court by Marin Vasquez, the child's father. He claims that upon the death of his wife about a year ago he permitted the child to be taken to marez to visit her grandmother. There, he alleges, one Manuel Fluertas unlaw-fully obtained possession of the little girl and has since refused to give her up. On November 16, the complaint asserts, Fluertas brought the child back within the jurisdiction of the court and is now keeping her near the smelter. Vasquez asks that the court, after inquiry, return the child to his keeping.

a constructive program of progress.

Three Essentials.

Both majority and minority reports asserted "that there are three essentials of a sound water power policy: Prompt development, prevention of unregulated monopoly and good service and fair charges to the consumer." Both said that "the regulation of size and charges is munity a state or local function." and that it "should be exercised by the government only in interstate cases."
